

FOR WE REMEMBER

For we remember,
we remember those who fought relentlessly,
painfully risking their life for another.
we remember those who fought treacherously,
essentially dangling their life over death to save another.
A deed unrepayable.

They lay in mud, sacrificing blood for they're beloved country.
They face through the treacherous winter frost, and summer heat.
They marched through fire,
hearts heavy with the weight of war's cruel cost.
Yet they stand tall,
with every step they face an unbearable storm.

So we remain in silence,
as the desperate cries of the battlefield whisper,
withering away into the wind.
The scars remain deep.
Yet invisible to the view.
Scars etched deep into those that carry on.
For they fulfilled an unreasonable request,
so we stand in their shadow,
rightfully praising their courage and sacrifice.