

Dark Times

Today I am here to help remember those who made unimaginable sacrifices to keep the peace in the Canada we know and love today. Many people fought in war and many sadly didn't make it home. To them I say thank you and I hope that we as people never forget anyone who fought at war.

It was a dark time for everyone here in Canada. I can't imagine having to live through that. My great grandfather went to war. I never got to see him but if I could I would give him a huge thank you for the Canada I luckily get to live in and love so dearly. He fought in the 2nd world war. He died of cancer not long before I was born.

It was a horrible time for everyone in Canada and I hope it never has to happen ever again to anyone. I swear to never forget those who fought at war and made a huge sacrifice for mine and everyone in Canada today.

Sincerely,
Waylon Smith
